4 Study Progress Monitoring

Study Progress Monitoring For Study Residence Permit Validity

To maintain your Dutch study residence permit, you must earn at least 50% of your required ECTS each academic year. The Erasmus University Rotterdam (EUR) is required to track your study progress and report to the IND if you fail to meet this requirement—unless you have reported valid exceptional personal circumstances. If you don't meet the 50% ECTS rule, your study residence permit may be revoked.

First Year Bachelor Students:
EUR applies a Binding Study Advice (BSA) system for all bachelor programs. The BSA requirement takes priority over the 50% ECTS rule, so make sure you understand what this means for you!

Important Information for Pre-Master Students:
If you are enrolled in a pre-master (preparatory year) program, you must earn all ECTS from your pre-master courses and gain admission to your master's program. Failing to meet these requirements may affect your study residence permit. Make sure to stay on track with your studies.

Click here for extra practical information about SPM from EUR website

Exchange Students Exempted
The study progress monitoring requirement does not apply to exchange students who stay in the Netherlands for a short period (one year or less). If this applies to you, you are exempt and can simply upload an empty form.
